ORDER REFERENCE NO. 262 -2010-04

Re: Application of Great Lakes Chemical Corporation, a Chemtura company, for an Order amending Order Reference No. BU 2-95 (requiring unit operation of certain lands in the Central Brine Unit, Union County, Arkansas) to provide that certain brine produced in the Central Brine Unit shall be disposed of in the West Plant Brine Unit, Union County, Arkansas

Commissioners:

Great Lakes Chemical Corporation, a Chemtura company ("Great Lakes"), P.O. Box 10485, El Dorado, Arkansas 71730, hereby applies to the Arkansas Oil and Gas Commission (the "Commission") pursuant to Ark. Code Ann. §§ 15-76-201 et seq. for an Order amending Order Reference No. BU 2-95 (requiring unit operation of certain lands in the Central Brine Unit, Union County, Arkansas) to provide that certain brine produced in the Central Brine Unit shall be disposed of in the West Plant Brine Unit, Union County, Arkansas. In applying for this Order from the Commission, Great Lakes states as follows:

1. In Order Reference No. BU 2-95, effective as of August 22, 1995 (the "Central Unit Order"), the Commission established the Central Brine Unit (the "Central Unit") for the production of brine from the Smackover Lime Formation in conformity with a plan of development and operation for Central Unit and integrating all tracts and interests contained therein. In so doing, the Commission found that the creation of the Central Unit was necessary for the prevention of waste and the protection of the correlative rights of all interested parties. Central Unit Order, Conclusions of Law, ¶ 5.

2. In Order Reference No. BU 3-95, effective as of November 28, 1995 (the "West Unit Order"), the Commission established the West Plant Unit (the "West Unit") for the production of brine from the Smackover Formation underlying certain lands in Union County, Arkansas.

3. Great Lakes is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Chemtura Corporation ("Chemtura"). Chemtura, Great Lakes and various affiliated companies are debtors in possession under Chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Code in a case pending in the United States

Bankruptcy Court for the Southern District of New York, No. 09-11233 (the “Bankruptcy Proceeding”).

4. Great Lakes, Chemtura and their debtor and non-debtor affiliates (collectively, the “Company”) are a globally diversified manufacturer and marketer of specialty chemicals products, most of which are sold to industrial manufacturing customers for use as additives, ingredients or intermediates that add value to their end products. The Company operates in two business groups: engineered products and performance products. The engineered products business group includes a flame retardants segment that produces, among other things, brominated flame retardant products. Great Lakes owns and operates the South Brine Unit Plant, the Central Brine Unit Plant and the West Brine Unit Plant in Union County (the “Union County Facility”). Historically, the Union County Facility has been a manufacturing site for Great Lakes’ bromine, brominated flame retardants and brominated performance products.

5. As part of its plan to maximize efficiencies in the Union County Facility, Great Lakes proposes to dissolve the South Brine Unit¹ and transport brine produced in the Central Unit to Great Lakes’ West Plant in Marysville (the “West Plant”), allowing Great Lakes to process brine produced in both the Central Brine Unit and the West Brine Unit at a single location. Great Lakes expects to reduce capital intensity, improve profitability via the operation of brine and bromine production, exit one low volume non-sustainable product line, manage the phase-out of Decabrom production, convert capacity to more profitable and sustainable new products, and more efficiently manage by-product streams.

6. In conjunction with the movement of Central Unit brine to the West Plant for processing, a portion of the Central Unit tail brine will be injected into existing disposal wells in the West Unit. The disposal of additional tail brine in the West Unit will have no adverse impact on the natural balance of the brine aquifer.

7. In an Order entered in the Bankruptcy Proceeding on February 23, 2010, the Court approved the Company’s plan to consolidate and idle certain of the Company’s assets in the Union County Facility, which action includes the consolidation of operations described herein.

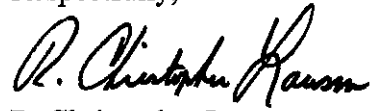

8. In support of this Application, Great Lakes offers the Report of Henry Coutret, attached hereto as Exhibit 1, with its attachments.

9. The parties listed on Exhibit 2 attached hereto are interested in this Application and will be provided notice of this Application.

10. Please note the appearance of R. Christopher Lawson of Friday, Eldredge & Clark, LLP, on behalf of the Applicant, Great Lakes Chemical Corporation, a Chemtura company.

¹ The proposed dissolution of the South Brine Unit is the subject of a separate Application to the Commission filed contemporaneously herewith.

Respectfully,

Re: Application of Great Lakes Chemical Corporation, a Chemtura company,
For an Order amending Order Reference Number BU 2-95 to provide that Certain brine produced in the Central Plant Brine Unit shall be disposed of in the West Plant Brine Unit, Union County, Arkansas

Dear Mr. Lawson:

As requested, I have reviewed the proposed plan to process brine from the Central Plant Brine Unit in the West Plant and disposing of a portion of the tail brine after processing in the West Plant Brine Unit. The purpose of my study was to determine if the changes being proposed would adversely affect the ultimate bromide recovery from either unit and would protect the correlative rights of the mineral owners who are the lessors of the brine rights in each unit.

The purpose for disposing processed tail brine into the unit from which it is produced is to maintain reservoir pressure in the brine unit and to make sure that pressure gradients within the Reynolds aquifer, that could result in formation brine being displaced across Unit boundaries, do not develop. If the proposed changes are made, the Central Plant brine will be transported to the West Plant and commingled with the West Plant Unit brine for processing. Figures 1 and 2 are schematic flow diagrams that show the anticipated average daily volumes of brine that will be moved between the units for processing and disposal. Figure 1 depicts the average daily volumes transported, processed and disposed in these two units during the year 2009. Figure 2 shows the anticipated average daily volumes under the plan proposed in the Great Lakes application. Both diagrams include the Tetra plant that takes a small portion of the tail brine from the West Plant and processes it to recover other chemical components not recovered by Great Lakes. As you can see the net effect of the changes is a 20,000 barrels per day increase in brine production in the Central Plant Unit and virtually no change in disposal volumes.

The Reynolds aquifer is a common source of supply for all three Great Lakes brine units. The reservoir rock is very permeable and pressure changes can affect a very large area. Before brine production began in this area the pressure in the Reynolds zone had been somewhat depleted by the old, large Reynolds oil fields, particularly by those in Columbia County, that had produced for many years. The production and disposal of brine has resulted in the restoration of some of the lost pressure because disposal volumes exceed produced volumes. (This is because the steam, used in the process of recovering the bromide, condenses and mixes with the brine being processed resulting in disposal volumes that are greater than produced brine volumes.)

The pressure changes in the reservoir are monitored on a regular basis by taking a static measurement of fluid level when the wells are not being pumped. Table I, shows the results of the most recent fluid level measurements and the calculated the bottom hole pressure at mid-point depth of the Reynolds zone in each well. It shows that the average pressure in the Central Plant Unit is 364 psi higher than the pressure in the West Plant Unit. This is partly due to the fact that the Central Plant is older and also because the distance from injection to supply wells is greater in the West Plant Unit. Although this pressure differences is not large, greater protection of correlative rights would be afforded by reducing the pressure difference between these units. This would be a beneficial result of producing slightly more than being injected into the Central Plant Unit. Processing Central Plant Unit brine at the West Plant, as proposed in the application would provide increased flexibility in controlling the pressure in each unit.

It is my opinion that approval of this application would provide economic benefits that would extend the life of the Central Plant Unit without adversely affecting the correlative rights of mineral owners in either of the units.

Should you have any questions or need additional information about the data, analysis, or conclusions of this study, please feel free to call us.

Yours very truly,
